Changes: A True Story About Oscar Turtle and Amazon Red Triti

"Changes" a true story about an Amazon Red Devil Fish and a Louisiana Soft-Shell Turtle along with the accompanying book of sketches coloring book "Oscar Turtle and Amazon Red" demonstrate in easy steps how to create a story with pictures words and music using the new learning format being used in education today.

To Create Art we must "see" not just look. The changing painted image and style of the turtle, fish, wood & foliage stimulates the imagination "to see" the difference at the root level of thought, the vision is experienced. The fish magically became an albino allowing a further observation to be presented. One page is done in watercolor the opposite page colored pencil is used which allows the creative steps in painting to be seen.

The book of sketches coloring workbook shows how you look at individual parts of the whole.

Photographs from which some of the paintings were conceived are included in the book along with the "live" sketches of the animals in the book of sketches coloring book.

To Create a Story you must start with an idea and build on it. This is explained in EASY STEPS in both introductions.

To Create Music you must listen and hear the Changes.

With all the advancements in technology the need to draw, play music and create from nothing is necessary to develop that part of the brain. Infrared photography reveals if these skills are not developed that part of the brain does not develop.
